GLADES WATER TABLE DECLARED PRECARIOUS BY REPRESENTATIVE MEETING

Six Candidates Qualify Against Incumbents For Three Commissioner Jobs

Carlton Has Two Opponents
Close Has One; Four
After Other Job

City politics has become as attractive to seven additional persons recently and the campaign should produce some good arguments, pro and con, maybe a few cigars, some baby-kissing and some good old every day gossip, for no office is free of contests.

Sara Lee Creech has come out against Close for the West Borough. Lester Rhudy and George E. Tedder are opponents of H. O. (Cocky) Carlton; four ambitious individuals want the job in the central borough. Zach Lagan was the first to announce, and now comes Elmer C. Mapp, Howard E. Blair, and A. J. Richmond. Only Richmond has held office previously.

All of the candidates are "for the deer people," but not particular platforms, other than that, have not yet been disclosed.

In the first primary you vote for one, and if one candidate does not receive a majority, then there will be a second race. With this as a basis, there is only one race—the west borough—where the decision will be made in the first race. Election day is September 15th, and we should have an interesting three weeks campaign.

City Manager Is Election Question For All Voters

Voters in the coming City Elections will be asked to vote on accepting the act which provides that the City Commission shall appoint a City Manager.

If you want a City Manager, vote for this, and ask all candidates what their stand will be. Incidentally, you will run a half million dollar a year business without some one person as manager?

An Adjutant's office is being set up in the Legion building for convenience of Legion members and will also be used by the Auxiliary for Secretary's office.

Golf news is scarce these days. Too much rain or showers just when the ladies start teeing off or if they play several holes and are drenched before reaching shelter they decide it isn't worth the effort. So maybe when the rains are over and cooler weather is here play can be resumed.

Edith Van Landingham and Rayner Weeks are back but they have chores at home keeping them busy after being gone most of the summer.

Donna and I will go to West Palm Beach Sunday, to play in the intercity matches in which they were rained out a couple of weeks ago, and the ladies will play at the Hollywood Country Club in the Gulfstream Tournament. Louise McWhorter, Kat Weeks and Ruth Ziemann are the only players going down Friday.

Fla. Cooperatives Group To Conduct Meet At Clewiston

Marvin Walker of Lake Wales, President of the Florida Council of Farmer Cooperatives, has notified L. L. Pries, past President of the group, that the State organization is joining the American Institute of Cooperation in sponsoring five district conferences on cooperative education, with this district to be held at Clewiston on September 4th, beginning at 2 p.m.

All Cooperative managers, agricultural teachers, county agents and newspapermen will be invited to the meeting.

The purpose of these group gatherings is to advance the information generally on just what a Co-op is and its benefits to farmers.

E. A. McCabe of Belle Glade and Jess Elliott are Directors of the State Council, and George C. Young of the Glades Livestock Market Association is a director particularly representing the cattle industry.

The state organization is particularly interested in 4-H and FFA groups and has a definite program for these youngsters across the nation.

The September 5th event is open to drivers from Florida, Georgia, Alabama, North and South Carolina, Queen said. The Labor Day attraction is a benefit for the Shrine Club charity—offers a purse of $2,000 with $500 for the winner of the feature race. The racing program will include two heat races, consolation race, futurity feature, semi-final and the main event.

Queen said he expected a field of thirty cars to start the feature with such stellar drivers as Jack Choquette, Pat Kenny and Rags Carter making their bids.

The field, in addition to several Palm Beach County drivers, will include such competitors as Banjo Matthews, Ralph Moody, Neil Lawhorn, Allen Clarke, Jack Durkin, and a score of other top drivers familiar to Speedway fans.

Time trials for the Labor Day race will start at 7 p.m. with an event timed for eight o'clock.

Local Unionist, Luther Jones, is seen in a recent meeting of the local labor union.

Abu Shrine Club Sponsoring Races For Labor Day Fete

Prospects for one of the biggest Labor Day weekends in several years, were predicted in West Palm Beach this week by the Abu Shrine Club which is sponsoring a benefit auto race at the Palm Beach Speedway on September 5th.

Kenneth Easter, Shrine Club president, said the race will offer fans a double interest program with drivers not only competing for the Shriners' annual trophy, but also bidding for a chance to qualify for the National Modified Championships to be held at the Speedway in November.

Carl Queen, Speedway director, said the Labor Day weekend event has been designated by the National Association of Stock Car Racing as the regional qualifying race for drivers from five states. NASCAR is sanctioning the November championship since the Speedway's holiday event is one of the 13 qualifying races being staged across the nation.

A proper valuation of agriculture in this County will be made and a plan for procedure will be determined and begun," said Mr. Rablin. "With indications that agriculture is the greatest contributor to the County's income," he continued, "the interests of that industry is a matter of major concern, and this Committee will approach the problems from that standpoint."

This meeting is being held in cooperation with the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association and the Florida State Employment Service. Representatives of the United States Employment Service are also expected to be in attendance.

Cattle Sales Fall At Both Monday And Thursday's Auction

Described by most cattlemen "in the know" as a temporary market fluctuation, the recent lowering prices for dressed beef in the Miami and other areas, evidently has caused Glades cattlemen to draw back and hold off cattle for sale, for both Monday's and Thursday's auctions were below the normal expected offerings.

At Thursday's sale there were only 104 cattle, with slaughterers going approximately $1.00 higher than Monday. There is no report on this sale, as there were not enough of each kind to justify quotation.

At Monday's sale, 82 cows, 30 heifers, 6 bulls, 103 steers, 165 calves, and 12 yearlings.

85% went to slaughter. Slaughter—Good 15.00; Com. 12.25-14.25; Uty. 10.25-13.00; Cut. 7.00-10.00; Can. 4.00-7.00.

350 Boys Guests Of Legion At Little World Series Game

Art Parks, Chairman of the Legion's Baseball Committee reports that more than 350 Glades junior ball players will be transported to Miami on Thursday night, September 28, to witness the third night's play of the Little World Series to be played in the Miami Stadium Sept. 1 thru the 5th.

With the Legion Posts of Pahokee, Belle Glade, South Bay and the Lions Club at Moore Haven furnishing the tickets and local Lions, Rotary, Elks and other Clubs are furnishing transportation.

The Florida Highway Patrol will lead and guard the caravan from the several cities to a central gathering point at South Bay and on into Hialeah and Miami, where local police escorts will take over and lead them to the parking grounds.

Group seating and parking facilities have been arranged by baseball headquarters in Miami.

Dick Townsend of the Belle Glade Rotary Club has called a meeting in his office on Tuesday night, September 1st at seven o'clock of representatives of Lions, Rotary, Elks and Legion and all Little League and Pony League managers to participate in a final briefing of the players.

All players on local teams are officially invited on this trip.

Complete Encirclement Of Area, Pumps And Increase Of Channels Urged As Plan

Under the sponsorship of the Flood and Water Control Committee of the RDB, approximately 150 persons representing in the aggregate half a million acres of mucklands, reviewed present flood conditions and discussed prospective progress of the overall project with the conclusion that "a dangerous and precarious water table situation—threatens to flood farm lands during the approaching farming season."

Beginning with Frank Friend, representative of the West Palm Beach Canal tributary lands then George Wedgworth on Hillsboro, John L. Evans on North New River, Joe Friedman on the Clewiston area, questions to Colonel Schull, District Engineer and to Lamar Johnson and Turner Wallis of the C&SFCD established the contention of all speakers that there does exist a "dangerous condition."

Colonel Schull subjected himself to the questioning of the attendees and they let fly questions until the Colonel showed the wear and tear, but he stayed with them till the last, and though apparently bewildered by the tone, extent and vigor of the questions.

Most speakers emphasized the imminent danger because of the interference of normal water outlets caused by the construction already underway. Pumps, pumps, and more pumps were talked, especially enough to immediately to "care for the present condition of the canals."

The complete encirclement of the "agricultural area" which means the construction of L-2, L-3, L-4, L-5 and L-6 being next in order.

The deepening and widening of the West Palm, Hillsboro, N. New River, and the Canals came in for considerable discussion and was urged as part of the plan needed immediately.

When the farmers have been heard and the engineers, both C&SFCD and U. S., had pointed out their program emergency.

August 18, 1953

Dear Editor:

I do not know how to be sure to reach all of the good people who befriended us through the Belle Glade except through your paper. If you would be kind enough to publish the enclosed letter, I would appreciate it very much.

Thank you,
M. E. Noe

My dear Friends in Belle Glade:
Five weeks from the day of the accident which befell me near your town, I am very thankful to be able to write you this greeting from my home in Knoxville. There aren't words to express our gratitude for all you did in our time of need. I realize full well it was the faithful and untiring efforts of your good doctors, nurses, hospital staff, ministers, and kind citizens, with the help of God, that enabled me to bridge the gap between life and death, and we thank you.

There are few misfortunes that do not bring blessings with them, and we consider the loss of my friends made while we were in your little city among our richest experiences. When I came to Belle Glade I did not know a soul, but when we left we didn't know as few as I. I am happy to tell you that I was released from Knoxville General Hospital on August 14. Although I must be a bed patient for another two months, at the end of that time I am looking forward to the new fall attire of a walking cane which I will wear for another four months. My doctors say my chest is healing nicely.

Most sincerely,
M. E. Noe

FLORIDA AFLAME SETS RECORD PERFORMANCES

Florida AFLAME is continuing to create what is believed to be the longest run of a summer season for an outdoor performance without a performance cancellation due to rain. An effort is being made to secure continuous run records from other outdoor night-time enter-terprises and Foreign Commerce Commission.

98.375 Record — A near perfect record was set in the House this term by Congressman Dwight Rogers who missed only two roll calls. He missed on organization day when he would have voted against Speaker Martin anyway, and again when he was on a special assignment to investigate the much publicized Washington terminal railroad accident.

Smathers to Tour Europe — Following a round-the-state speaking tour which winds up on Labor Day at Sanlando Springs, Senator George Smathers is scheduled to spend a month with the Senate Small Business Committee in Europe. At the moment, Mr. Smathers hasn't decided whether to go with him or stay at home with the children.

DESTROY MOSQUITO BREEDING GROUNDS SAYS HEALTH BUREAU

Florida's mosquito fighters are beginning to put increased emphasis on a control program designed to "hit them harder where they live and breed" as the bureau is controlling salt marsh mosquitoes and other insects of public health or economic importance.

That's the word recently from John Mulrennan, director of the Florida State Board of Health Bureau of Entomology.

Control of breeding areas is the most effective way of controlling mosquitoes, particularly the salt-marsh variety, generally considered the most numerous of the "pest" mosquitoes in the state, Mulrennan declared.

But he warns that elimination of breeding areas will necessarily be a slow process all over the state which will pay the most dividends in terms of comfort and safety.

"There are only three ways to get rid of salt marsh mosquitoes," Mulrennan explained. "The first method is to destroy their breeding grounds — a time-consuming and expensive process, but the most effective. The long run, second method is by destroying mosquito larvae in water where they develop, by larvicide or by spraying the surface with oil or chemicals. The third method is to kill the adult mosquitoes with insecticides."

A few years ago, the third method appeared to be the most promising. The development of DDT and other insecticides led us to hope that mass spraying would be a cheap and effective way of controlling mosquitoes of all kinds.

"But we came to learn to our surprise and disappointment that spray programs were gradually losing their effectiveness when used continuously over the years. We learned that we were apparently developing a new group of DDT resistant mosquitoes which could survive with increasingly more powerful sprays."

"Public demand for quick relief," Mulrennan said, "has led us to the conclusion that the only way to control mosquitoes is by attacking them at their breeding grounds."

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 13, 1953, of the Statutes of the State of Florida, and to the order of the Circuit Court of Palm Beach County, Florida, in Case No. 13-154, do hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the petition filed in said court for the purpose of obtaining an order of appointment as executor of the estate of the late J. quitos are not like the domestic or malaria-carrying kind, which spend their lives within a shelter of yards of their breeding grounds. Salt-marsh mosquitoes are a migratory variety which can travel many miles to reach their victims.

"Any director of salt-marsh mosquito control projects will agree that his job — whether it's ditching a marsh, larvicide or spraying for adult mosquitoes — is a gamble as long as he can't be sure which breeding area is responsible for the annoyance to a certain community. "To reduce and if possible to eliminate this gamble, is the first and foremost objective of the State Board of Health biologists who are looking forward to maximum efficiency in their work when the proposed research center is established."

one should not attempt to can without them. Sometimes there may be a tiny nick in the top of the jar and you don't see it. With the Dome Lid you know whether or not you have a perfect seal," she says emphatically. "Because the Dome goes down." One of her favorite recipes is for pickled wax beans. Here it is:

Wash and sort long, yellow wax beans. Strip off ends. Do not string completely or pods will come apart when cooked. Boil until just done. Put 1 onion or half garlic clove and juice of 1 lemon in each jar. Boil 1 cup sugar, 3 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoonful celery seed, 1 heaping teaspoonful mustard seed. Pack beans lengthwise into jars and cover with hot pickling mixture. Put on Dome Lids and screw bands tight. Process in boiling water bath one minute.

as a matter of form. However, trends in business activity are indicated by the rise and fall of numbers of incorporations over a period of time.

Business failures in Florida during 1952 reached 143 with current liabilities of $6,597,000 as reported to Dun and Bradstreet. This number of firms failing last year was slightly under 1951 but liabilities showed no change. Nationally there were fewer failures but liabilities increased 9 percent. During the first quarter of 1953, Florida failures have increased 15 percent as against the national 4 percent figure.

Interestingly Florida accounted for 5.3 percent of all new business incorporations in the nation last year, for 1.8 percent of the failures and for 2.3 percent of the total current liabilities of failing firms.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

SMATHERS LETTER

Senator Smathers, who took part in only 74 percent of the roll call votes of 1951-52, but was on the job regularly during the first session of the present Congress and boosted this score to 98 percent, one of the highest.

As one of the two senators chosen by Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson to screen bills on the consent calendar and register objection to immediate passage of those where there was still controversy he served briefly as acting majority leader in Johnson's absence over the last weekend of the session.

But the job as "Official Objector" was a mixed blessing. Requested to request further action and showed Smathers to have been objected when he was merely recording the fact that some bills were requested further consideration. In one such case Democratic liberals called to censure Smathers, only to discover that he was acting at the request of two of their leaders, Sens. Estes Kefauver and Paul Douglas.

Smathers' position, as assigned by those who customarily rank senators from left to right rather than by party labels, was generally considered to be a bit more liberal than that of Sen. Spessard L. Holland, senior Florida senator. Such things, however, have proved difficult to document, as they depend largely upon a "conservative" about which there is marked disagreement. If an informal poll of press gallery observers were accepted as a guide, Smathers would be placed a bit to the right of center but allied with the extremes of neither wing.

In legislative issues of direct interest to Florida both of the state's senators have been not only in agreement but rivals only in efforts to get the most help. Both, however, insist that the Florida projects meet with their opinion in the test of "sound economy" rather than mere "pork barrel legislation" or favors at the expense of other taxpayers.

They fought together for more flood control funds, airport development, research into citrus diseases, two federal judges for the overburdened and mismanaged South Florida District that includes most of the state from Jacksonville south, plus many other objectives.

Smathers was the chief advocate, however, of reform in the method of selecting presidential candidates and the electoral college, an effort that seems to be gaining momentum, while Holland was recognized for his successful fight to enact tide lands legislation recognizing the rights of states within their historic boundaries.

The junior senator was never more effective than when he led fight against the destruction of the Bureau of Standards as a scientific institution free to give opinions of products without regard to their effect on commercial promotional campaigns, as in the battery additive case.

In this he won the plaudits of the nation's scientists who reprinted the attacks on Dr. Allen V. Astin as director of the Bureau.

Ironically, the attack on Dr. Astin, developer of the proximity fuse and contributor to many scientific advances, came from a Republican cabinet member, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, and Astin's record was cleared by the help of a Democratic senator, Dr. Astin, although never active in political campaigns, is a registered Republican.

In the seven postyears, more than 5,000,000 home freezers have been purchased for use in American homes. During the last four years, Floridians alone have bought almost $1,000 of the highly popular home freezers.

Small town residents bought the largest percentage of 1,140,000 home freezers sold last year. Fruits and vegetables from the home garden, and chickens and eggs from the poultry yard can be frozen quickly and easily — to be eaten by the family month after month or held for off-season market when selling prices are best.

One out of every three home freezers sold today is the large 13 to 16 cubic foot size. A national survey revealed. In refrigerators as well as in home freezers, dependable electric refrigeration is preferred, together with a maximum amount of storage capacity.

TWO FILMS ON LIFE OF CHRIST PLANNED

Two more of the 13-film series ample to others, and there are definite responsibilities that are based on different phases of the course as professed followers of Christ.

life of Jesus Christ will be produced next September by Cathedral Films, religious motion picture firm in Hollywood, Calif. It will tell the story of Jesus' infancy and the other of his boyhood.

The new half-hour films — to be shot in 16mm and 35mm film in both color and black-and-white — are to be produced by the Rev. James K. Friedrich, Cathedral Films president, and directed by John T. Coyle. Screenplays have been completed by Arthur Harmon.

Decision to go ahead with plans for the entire series (not being produced chronologically) was based on the phenomenal success of "I Beheld His Glory," a 55-minute picture depicting the crucifixion of two of the series already produced. The other is "Holy Night," telling the story of Jesus' birth.

"I Beheld His Glory" will win this year the National Evangelical Film Festival Award, the Boston Film Festival Award and the Cleveland Film Festival Award.

Outline for THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. LESSON TOPIC — "Standards For Christian Leaders" SCRIPTURE — 1 Timothy 4:1-16 By Rev. Robert Ford

INTRODUCTION: Although Paul is speaking to Timothy as a minister, this advice is for the edification of all believers.

I. Exercise unto Godliness — 1 Timothy 4:6-8. The old adage "practise what you preach" is the best in the striving of the believer in trying to live godly lives.

II. The Saviour Of All Men — 1 Timothy 4:10-11. The struggle for Christian Character finds its deepest meaning when it grows out of our faith in God. Because we trust in the living God we know that we are cooperating with Him and His purpose for us as we make our stand for righteousness.

III. An Example of Believers — 1 Timothy 4:12. A Christian truly becomes vital when it becomes incarnate in Christian living.

IV. The Public Duties of the Minister — 1 Timothy 4:13-15. Here Paul sets forth the duties of the office of the ministry.

CONCLUSION: The Christian life comes through training. It is to be an extended process of growth and there are definite responsibilities that are based on different phases of the course as professed followers of Christ.

THIS WEEK'S SERMONETTE

BEFORE WE LEARN TO LIVE

By Elder Richard Evans

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

Sometimes we may wonder why we live so long before we learn to live. There are many things we have learned early instead of later in life, numerous mistakes and misunderstandings along the way, errors of judgment, bad beginnings, lost time, journeys and ventures in the wrong direction, unprofitable and unpromising pursuits.

There are strained relationships between people who should be close to one another, people that have every natural reason to keep close, drift apart. There are errors of understanding, quarrels, prejudice, wrong actions, and unwise utterances. And then sometime, somewhere along the way, we learn to misjudge less, to understand more with less resentment, less quick judgment, to live with less and well may we wish that we had more knowledge of these things early in life. Some people mellow and mature in judgment and wisdom, but many of us live a long time before we seem to learn of the fairly simple matters that could have made our lives and the lives of others more full of meaning.

Living so long before we learn to live may be one of God's purposes. With an immortal future before us, life appears as a period of preparation for eternal opportunities without end. Our failures and faltering may be in part the growing pains which we can survive with faith in the plan and purpose of a loving Father, with faith that an understanding will ultimately be ours. That we shall then know, as we now believe that the struggle and the journey will gloriously be more than worth the effort and justify the faith in which we now live in many ways.

WHAT GOES ON BETWEEN THESE FIRMS?

Looks simple enough, doesn't it? You give blood, the one who needs it gets it. But someone has to organize the collection of blood on a large scale. Someone has to process it—see that it and its derivatives are available where they are needed, when they are needed.

Your Red Cross is the agency which handles these important missions.

Today, approximately half the civilian, veteran and military hospitals in this country look to the Red Cross for all or part of the blood needed to treat

As it depends upon your generosity in giving blood, so does your Red Cross also depend upon your contributions in the equally vital assignment of collecting, processing and distributing it and its derivatives. You can help by answering generously when your Red Cross calls.

Your personality and the things you are interested in are very likely to indicate the type of eyesight problem you may have, says the Florida Optometrist.

Did you know that there are fourteen towns in America called "Hope"? It's fact according to the almanac. But then it comes right down to it, don't we all live in a town called "Hope"? Everyone lives in hope for a better, peaceful world. Yes, all America is a land of hope. But, if the hopes of Americans are to be realized, then

Sportsman's Prayer

A Salifish of 82 pounds, landed with an 8-pound (eight) tenpound line, has brought fame to Fred Phillips, of Miami, the successful angler. It just goes to show that most fishermen continue to use gear which is far too heavy. Phillips was fishing the ocean in a small skiff, casting with light tackle for dolphins, when the sail socked his artificial lure. It took him about an hour and a half to boat the big salifish. The line he used was of Ashway make—a line much lighter than many anglers use for black bass.

Havahart "box" traps, for taking varmints alive and without hurting them, have often been mentioned in this column. Quail and small game destroyers, such as possum, wild house cats etc. are easily eliminated with this humane trap. The same thing applies to enemies of song birds. Not long ago I suggested that these Havahart traps should be standard equipment for members of the Audubon society. Now Fox B. Conner, who manufactures these traps, has come out with a most interesting booklet, free for the asking, telling about "Humane Havahart Traps." Write him at Box 551, Ossining, New York and get your copy. I believe that more of these varmint-catchers should be in the hands of bird lovers and sportsmen.

A Boost now for the "Tuttle Talks on Photography" column which appears frequently in Florida newspaper. Photography can add much to the enjoyment of the outdoors and all of the outdoor sports. Making good pictures is easy, provided you've got the right equipment (which need not be expensive) and the know-how. This knowledge of how to take good pictures can be quickly acquired. Generally speaking, it is best to use a flash bulb with all pictures, these days—and this applies especially to "snap" made outdoors in bright sunlight. The expert can make good pictures in shady places without flash bulbs, though the non-expert cannot. So the rule which says, "always use a flash bulb" is a pretty safe one to follow. The invitation to "send good photographs to this column" still stands.

Trigger Pull on a revolver or pistol regulates the accuracy of this trip, on the usual summer trip, we took another route through Georgia. Not a watermelon field did we see, all the fields of cantaloupes, either. Swinging into Griffin, Ga. from the east, we finally did see three small peach orchards, which handles 22 shorts only, and find that the easy trigger pull (around 2 pounds) plus the wonderful balance of the handgun, are making shooting a joy. While the low cost of the 22 shorts makes it possible for anyone to engage in target practice all day long should he choose to do so. The "Olympic" is exceedingly accurate up to ranges which are greater than usually 'shot' in pistol practice.

Interesting Gun Data has just come in from Harrington & Richardson, too, and while I have not tried this company's new handguns, I think the comments of F. O. M. L. H. Gage, Jr. will prove helpful to many readers:—"We have checked with our quality control department regarding the trigger pull on our revolvers," he states, and "our present models have a pull of about four pounds, however, due to a design change in the hammer and seat just introduced this weight can be reduced if a lighter pull is desired." I had asked Gage why manufacturers come out with heavy trigger pulls. Here is his answer: "Revolvers do not leave the factory with a very light pull because only target shooters prefer a 'hair trigger' which is generally unsafe for the ordinary plinker." He adds that "adjustments can be made at the factory for a minimum labor charge of $1.75," which will give us good news to many shooters who are accustomed to paying gunsmiths up to $75 for reducing trigger pull! Of course, I can see the point in turning out guns with a trigger pull so heavy that chumps cannot fire them without considerable effort. On the other hand, "plinkers" will never hit more than the broadside-of-a-barn with a gun with a heavy trigger pull. Making it possible for sportsmen to buy guns with the trigger pull to order, at no additional cost, or at a very low cost, has now been achieved. It's about time.

Open Range territory appeals to me. At Lakeland, Georgia, a few days ago, I found myself, once again, in such territory. Much like Florida was just a few years ago. And heaven knows, there are thousands of us out there who wish that the open range could be restored to Florida! Cattle are on the highways to be sure—which has a tendency to slow down automobile drivers considerably. I say that anything which will slow down the present brand of crazy drivers is desirable! The cows do it. Moreover this "open range" country is open to all hunters included. The cows and the sportsmen can wander just anywhere and there is not a "posted" sign in the entire area. What have we now in Florida? Because of the ending of the open range? Well, for one thing, several million "POSTED" signs. And no place to hunt any more.

So I say,—give us back the open range and all that goes with it, including the bushes and the open highways. Of course, this is a vain hope, but Florida sportsmen can at least look longingly at Lakeland, Georgia and perhaps make plans to do some of their quail shooting there, come another hunting season.

Georgia Reaches are of two kinds, as every one knows. In past summers I've often discovered there are more beautiful girls and women around Fort Valley and Macon, Georgia than at any other place on earth. It will be one of the finest of

Mehmet, the Turk HAS REASON TO SMILE

The AVERAGE TURK is sentimental about his wooden plow—so sentimental that, today, he is busy putting it in a museum. After all, the wooden plow, handed down from father to son, had served him since the days of Saint Paul. Today, however, times are different. Two years ago, Mehmet and most of his brother-framers, voted in a new government which took on the raising of farm production as its first job.

First, the Government taught Mehmet the value of the steel plow and, when they convinced him, he went out and bought one. He used it to borrow money but the Government helped him. Mehmet soon found that he was not only able to plow more, but that his yield per acre had increased. On the next farm, Ahmet, with a larger holding, was using a tractor. In a year's time

Ahmet, after a lifetime of struggle, had become a prosperous man. His son had learned to run the tractor at a government training center.

Turkey is no longer a drain on a hungry world. Turkish food is going to Europe and Asia because the "steel horse" has won the day over the wooden plow.
